An aged man who loved to doze away An hour by daylight, for his eyes were dim, And he had seen too many suns go down And rise again, dreamt that he saw two forms Of radiant beauty: he would clasp them both, But both flew stealthily away. He cried In his wild dream, I never thought, O Youth, That thou, altho so cherisht, wouldst return, But I did think that he who came with thee, Love, who could swear more sweetly than birds sing, Would never leave me comfortless and lone. Of the nine sisters eight are grown uncouth, And even the ninth has lost the bloom of youth. Some jealous poet may have written so; Is there truth in it? Tell nie, yes or no. LXXXVII. THE FORMER DAY. Iberians, Belgians, Gauls! ye rage in vain, Cromwell shall rule the land and Blake the main, A greater man, if greater man there be, Milton, hath undersignd the Lords decree. LXXXVIII. CONFESSION OF JEALOUSY. Jealous, I own it, I was once, That wickedness I here renounce. I tried at wit, it would not do; At tenderness, that faild me too; Before me on each path there stood The witty and the tender Hood. LXXXIX. A generous action may atone

For many a less worthy one, Yet take thou heed the generous be In number as...
